Executive Conference | October 21-23

Securing the Future: Your Business, Your Talent, Your Customers

Ripped from the headlines, this year's ECIA Executive Conference is all about security. Because when all is said and done, you can't do business unless your company, your employees and your customers are secure. It's the bedrock of growth and prosperity and threats coming from global political uncertainty and new data technologies have undermined confidence throughout the global economy.

The 2018 ECIA Executive Conference focuses on solutions and strategies to keep those assets secure. The industry's premier executive networking event of the year, this one and a half day conference provides plenty of networking opportunities coupled with thought-provoking sessions. Join the senior management teams of leading electronics companies for an informative, results-oriented experience. Registration is now open.
