Supply Chain Risk Management Webinar

Thursday, October 22 | 1:00 PM EDT | Register

The COVID-19 pandemic has exposed many supply chain related resiliency issues, ranging from shortages in product availability to meeting surges in demand. Because the supply chain issues are so visible and affecting so many companies adversely, shareholders and stakeholders will require companies and their supply chain executives to demonstrate an active, effective and ongoing Supply Chain Risk Management (SCRM) program. What will be the next disruptive event? Are you ready?

Join an interactive presentation by Richard Sharpe, CEO of Competitive Insights, and gain key takeaways to make smarter and more targeted SCRM decisions, both reactive and proactive. Learn how effective SCRM analytics enables companies to add measurable resiliency to their operation while, at the same time, protecting profit and shareholder and stakeholder investments.

ECIA Board of Directors Webinar

Monday | November 9th | 2:00 - 3:30 EST | Register

ECIA has scheduled a webinar to brief members and the industry about progress on 2020 initiatives and the association's direction moving forward. Dale Ford, ECIA's Chief Analyst will also provide an economic update based on his surveys and research of this most challenging year. The current roster of Board of Directors will be available to take questions and report on the state of the association.

The agenda includes remarks from outgoing Board Chairman Jeff Thomson, ON Semiconductor as he hands the reins over to Frank Flynn, Sager Electronics. Also on the agenda is a review of the year's activities from ECIA President and CEO David Loftus. There will be plenty of time for questions from the attendees. The webinar will conclude with an economic presentation from Dale Ford.

Encourage your team to take part in this interactive discussion with the ECIA Board! Register here.
